Online short Course

Certificate in Islamic Economics

Open to All

07 August – 02 October, 2022

Every Sunday, 09:00 AM – 12:30 PM Malaysian Time

The field of Islamic Economics has experienced a revitalization in recent decades. There is a rising interest and emphasis on certain Islamic Economics guidelines when dealing with economic issues. Unlike conventional economics, Islamic Economics is founded on a religious worldview that challenges the foundation of secularism and materialism. Recognizing this growing interest, IIIT ESEA, in collaboration with CIE and KENMS, IIUM, is offering an online course for the Certificate in Islamic Economics. The classes are meant for scholars, students in economics as well as members of the general public. This course aims at providing an opportunity for the participants to engage directly with experts in the said fields and hopefully allow for a more informed and interactive learning.
