

NOOR UL SABHA

CONTENT WRITER, BLOG'S WRITER AND WEBSITE CONTRIBUTOR
INSIGHT OF INTERNATIONAL POLITICS AND STRATEGIC DEVELOPMENT

SUMMARY

As a Content Writer and Website Contributor for a leading political think tank, I have specialized in producing insightful and compelling content that informs and influences public policy discussions. My role has involved conducting thorough research on complex political issues, drafting policy briefs, opinion pieces, and analytical articles, and collaborating with experts to ensure accuracy and depth. I have also managed website content, ensuring it is up-to-date, strategically aligned with the think tank's mission, and optimized for SEO. My contributions have enhanced the organization's online presence, engaged stakeholders, and supported advocacy efforts through clear, persuasive communication

RESEARCH INTERN, CGSS

JUNE 2021- NOV 2021

- During my internship at the Centre of Global and Strategic Studies (CGSS), I gained hands-on experience in a dynamic think tank environment. My role involved moderating various high-profile events, including policy discussions, seminars, and conferences. I was responsible for coordinating with speakers, facilitating discussions, and ensuring that events ran smoothly and professionally. This experience enhanced my public speaking and organizational skills, as well as my ability to engage with diverse audiences on complex global and strategic issues. Through this internship, I developed a deeper understanding of international relations and strategic studies, contributing to the impactful work of CGSS.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

- I engaged in a wide array of research and strategic development projects. I contributed to the strategic analysis of nuclear weapon proliferation, with a specific focus on North Korea, and conducted in-depth research on the sociological challenges faced by the domestic masses in Tarnol, Islamabad. I examined the bilateral strategic relations between the US and India and authored a term paper on China's diplomatic strategies toward India within the contemporary world order.

- Additionally, I researched arms control treaties, including START I and START II, and wrote articles on the Kartarpur Corridor and diplomatic shifts in South Asia. My research portfolio also includes an analysis of the United States' isolationism policy, a strategic review of the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor (CPEC), and its geopolitical implications for China.
- I conducted a comparative survey on behavioral changes in psychology at the university level and investigated India's Cold Start Doctrine and its impact on South Asia. My work extended to conflict management in the Middle East through UN peacekeeping missions, and I studied the national approaches to the COVID-19 pandemic. Furthermore, I analyzed the foreign policy of America in Afghanistan, the strategic importance of CPEC as a pivot for China toward Central Asia, and produced video content on the links between terrorism and religion. I also conducted research on Southeast Asian countries, contributing to a holistic understanding of regional and global strategic dynamics.
