About Me

I am a dynamic and innovative research scholar with more than five years of experience in teaching and administration at both public and private universities. I have a proven track record of excellence in academia, demonstrating leadership in teaching with strong pedagogical skills, conducting diverse research, and curriculum development within the Humanities & Social Sciences. Previously, I have worked as a Teaching Assistant, Assistant In-Charge of Student Affairs, Junior Editor for an Academic Journal, and Personal Assistant to Senior Faculty. In these roles, I have contributed to promoting academic excellence, fostering student success, and supporting institutional goals through effective leadership, collaboration, and strategic program development. I am committed to advancing academic excellence through a comprehensive approach to teaching, research, and mentorship. My focus is on promoting scholarly achievement and creating an environment that supports both the academic and personal growth of students. I aim to implement innovative teaching methods, lead impactful research initiatives, and improve institutional efficiency to support the achievement of the institution's strategic goals. I aspire to inspire and mentor future generations of scholars and researchers, creating a transformative impact on their educational journeys. With resolute dedication, I aim to promote positive social change and contribute meaningfully to the progress of society.

Core Competencies

I specialize in optimizing Zoom and Learning Management Systems (LMS) for online education and am highly proficient in MS Office 2016. With a strong background in fieldwork and research techniques, I create and deliver engaging lectures, seminars, conferences, and workshops for both undergraduate and graduate students. I used diverse teaching methods, such as active learning, technology integration, and hands-on experiences, to promote critical thinking and problem-solving skills among students. I develop course materials and assessments that align with educational standards and evaluate student learning outcomes through projects, quizzes, assignments, and examinations. Through effective time management, I successfully balance teaching, research, and extracurricular activities, ensuring unified coordination without conflicts. Furthermore, I actively represent the institution at academic forums, seminars, conferences, and public engagements to promote its mission and enhance its reputation within the educational community.

Area of Expertise

As a research scholar, I extensively focus on exploring Pakistan's history, political landscape, and its cultural richness. My academic pursuits span across arts & humanities and social sciences as well, with a critical examination of governance, public policies, political and societal dynamics of Pakistan. I aim to critically examine the societal issues in Pakistan, such as gender discrimination, women's empowerment, ethnic and sectarian dynamics, personal and community development, human trafficking, environmental challenges, mastering SGDS, and National security threats to Pakistan. My ultimate aim is to contribute significantly to Pakistan's political, economic, societal and cultural development, enhancing its global standing through comprehensive research and active involvement in community service.
