Brief Summary

I am a dedicated and detail-oriented Commerce graduate with a strong academic background and keen interest in finance and behavioral economics. During my BS Commerce degree, I conducted an in-depth research project titled "The Impact of Fintech Services Offered by Banks." This project enhanced my analytical, research, and data interpretation skills, and deepened my understanding of how psychological and social factors influence financial behavior. I am now eager to apply my knowledge in a dynamic organization where I can contribute to smart financial decision-making and continue to grow professionally.
