HUMA IMRAN

Professional Summary / Teaching Philosophy

An academically driven and student-centered English educator with a strong foundation in linguistics and a keen interest in language structure, variation, and applied discourse. I believe in fostering analytical and reflective thinking by connecting linguistic theory to real-world language use across social contexts. My teaching emphasizes inclusivity, critical inquiry, and the development of effective communication skills—empowering students to become linguistically aware individuals who can become all-rounded individuals.

OBJECTIVE

Motivated and creative academic professional seeking a university lecturer position in English Linguistics and Literature. Committed to inspiring students, fostering critical thinking, and contributing to academic excellence and research. Passionate about shaping future minds to become articulate, reflective, and empowered individuals.
